What Readers Loved

Readers cast their votes for hotels with a sense of cosmopolitan savoir-faire paired with artistic (or historic) sensibilities. Take the Lancaster Hotel in the No. 2 spot, first built in Houston, Texas in the 1920s, yet today boasts a 200-plus collection from contemporary artists based in its home state. Or, the haute Raffles Boston in the No. 3 spot (one of three Boston honorees in this category this year), in which guests can find copper accents in the interior design inspired by Paul Revere’s successful but little-known copper plating company.
